Awards/Ratings

Serge Valentin/Whiskyfun: *** (82/100)

Specials: « It's hard to make much better at this age. Well, it's probably impossible» (Serge Valentin, Whiskyfun).

Diese Abfüllung ist dem Schweizer Arzt, Naturforscher, Altphilologe, Humanist, Polyhistor und Enzyklopädist Conrad Gessner (1516-1565) gewidmet. In seinem Werk «The History of Four Footed Beasts and Serpents» beschrieb und zeichnete Gessner auf Seite 580 das Sagentier Seawolf. Das heutige Logo der Destillerie entstammt den Aufzeichnungen Conrad Gessners. Eine Selektion von 8 Quarter Casks von Alex Polasek.

TASTING NOTES

Notes by alexanderwhisky.ch

Farbe: Strohgelb bis pastellgold.

Bukett: Helle frische Fruchtnoten, Birne, Melone.

Gaumen: Vanillewürze, Tabak mit unterstützenden Fruchtaromen, Birne, Kirsche, Melone und etwas Raucharomen.

Körper: kräftig, bestimmend, leicht ölig.

Finish: Kräftiges, langes Finale, mit Tabakaromen endend.

Notes by Whiskyfun (Serge Valentin)

Colour: straw. Nose: a pretty similar profile, with this creamy barleyiness, the overripe pears, all the syrups, the discreet feintness (an asset actually, or it won't further age gracefully)... and whiffs of porridge from a good house. All fine. With water: barley and fudge, plus preserved peaches and pears. What I really enjoy a lot is that the vanilla is kept at bay. Remember, vanilla kills spirits (I think).

Mouth (neat): full-flown youth with perfect pastry-like flavours, Danishes, syrups, peach jam... With water: great. Hay, pears, apples, creamy barley. Love the taste of barley in my malt whiskies.

Finish: medium, on the very same notes. A touch of earth in the aftertaste, always welcome. Comments: a slightly creamier version of the Kilver, which I enjoyed just a touch better. It's hard to make much better at this age. Well, it's probably impossible. SGP:541 - 82 points.
